THE DOPE

Panel 1: SURE, JEEPS, I'M JUST GETTING WISE. I GOT A GREAT SCHEME TO WIN SOME BIG COIN. COME TO SOME QUIET PLACE AND I'LL TELL YOU ABOUT IT.

Panel 2: NOW HERE'S THE IDEA. IN THE TOURNY RACE, TODAY, ONLY TWO MOQUETTES HAVE A CHANCE, MOQUETTE AND "HILL TOP". NOW I GOT $125 LEFT AND I'LL BEAT THE CHUCK ON MOQUETTE. NOW HERE'S WHERE YOU COME IN.

Panel 3: I'LL HAVE ALL MY KUSH ON MOQUETTE AND THEN YOU TAKE THIS HORSESHOE AND DOPE. HILL TOP SO HE CAN'T RUN SEE I'LL WINNY LOSE.

Panel 4: WHY ME?

Panel 5: WHY, JEEPS, I'M SURPRISED AT YOU EVEN HESITATING. THINK WHERE I FOUND YOU! IN THE BUSMHOUSE! THINK WHAT YOU OWE TO ME! BECAUSE IF YOU GET KILLED, I'LL BURY YOU WITH HORNGE.

Panel 6: FORGONE WILL FORGONE ME!

Panel 7: I'LL MAKE SURE AND GIVE HIM A DOUBLE DOSE.

Panel 8: ONE HUNDRED AND EIGHTYFIVE BIG SPINKS ON MOQUETTE.

Panel 9: WELL, I DOPED HIM! HE WON'T RUN A LICK TODAY. I COULDN'T REMEMBER WHICH HORSE YOU WANTED DOPED AT FIRST AND THEN I REMEMBERED. SO I DOPED HIM! MOQUETTE.

STRAIGHT DOPE FOR SPORT FANS

THERE IS AN OLD, WORN-OUT STORY with a moral, which I spring for the tenth time to a lot of people who are indulging in a guessing contest as to who wrote this dope.

Bill was a pupil at a country school and he had missed his annual bath for several years. The teacher daily looked and sent Bill home with a note to his mother informing that good lady that Bill's odor was getting too loud for comfort, and requesting that she persuade him to take a dip in the home trough and wash himself down from some of it.

The following day Bill was back at school with a note from his mother, which read:

"Bill! Bath! no more. Lard him, don't sweat him."

Moral: Lard him any sleep over who writes this dope. Just read it and if it doesn't suit you, batter your heads off and make it change my system.

PRESIDENT TATTS PROPOSED visit to Boston has caused a big boom in ball hitting. Maybe you can't see the connection or figure out how our million-manufactured chief executive, whose most strenuous stunt is coaching the eleven who bell into a little hole in terra firma, or swatting the flabby wreathers, can have anything to do with what the greatest ball bats in the country are doing. I hope he will sit down on their skins, and if he does they sure will flatten out. Ball hitting is not sport. In Mexico it seems to have become a necessity.

SAM LANGFORD HAS TWO ambitions in life. His first and chief one is to win the title of champion from Jack Johnson, which is no contest for him. The other is to have a fight with a champion, which is no contest for him either. The first one is to have a fight with a champion, which is no contest for him either. The other is to have a fight with a champion, which is no contest for him either.

THERE ARE LETTERS HERE from Peter McNally, champion long distance runner, and Frank W. Johnson, manager of the Boston Red Sox. McNally writes that he is going to run the Boston Marathon, and Johnson writes that he is going to play for the Boston Red Sox.

Negro Has Wonderful Chest Showing His Tremendous Hitting Power.

Upon the training camps as well as in the ring, there is sure to be a struggle to get the gloves over his head. Both men are growing rapidly, and there is no telling how many more changes may occur in their physique. Ketchell is a white man, and Langford is a negro. Ketchell is a white man, and Langford is a negro. Ketchell is a white man, and Langford is a negro.

White Man Has Advantage in Important Matters of Height and Reach.

Perhaps few people realize how nearly equal Stanley Ketchell and Sam Langford are in their physical make-up. Though the figures vary slightly at some points, a careful going over with the tape will show the fact that the men are physically built, and in many cases are very nearly equal.

Mr. Jack's Wife Leaves Him

82 AND 83 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, AUGUST 23, 1906

He Can Find It in the Life and Experiences of an Original Thinker
—Fullon, for Instance

Wherever he went he was laughed at, and discouraged. Right up to the very end he was called a fool, and when his successful steamboat's sailing was announced in advance, the crowd went out laughing to enjoy what they called "Fulton's folly."

All workers disappointed in the first results of their own efforts will find comfort also in Fulton's experience. The man who looks at the great steamship of to-day sees a boat entirely different from that which Fulton planned and gave to the world.

One hundred and two years ago, on the 17th of August, a newspaper called "The New York American Citizen" announced Fulton's plans as follows:

Mr. Fulton's ingenious Steam Boat, invented with a View to the Navigation of The Mississippi from New Orleans upwards, Sails to-day from the North River, near The State Prison, to Albany. The Velocity of the Steam Boat is Calculated at 4 miles an hour; it is said that it will make a progress of two against The Current of The Mississippi; and if so it will certainly be a very valuable acquisition to the Commerce of the Western States.

As Fulton walked down to the dock to go aboard of his boat men on either side "significantly tapped their foreheads" to indicate that Fulton was crazy. One man shouted at him "A fool and his money!" and another "God help you!"

Of course, when the boat started and actually went up stream against the current the crowd cheered and clapped—fools always do that—and end by thinking that they knew it all along.

It took Fulton thirty-two hours to get from New York to Albany—one hundred and fifty miles.

The same newspaper spoke as follows, rather mildly, of Mr. Fulton's triumph:

We congratulate Mr. Fulton and the Country on his success in the steamboat, which cannot fail of being very advantageous. We understand that not the smallest inconvenience is felt in the boat either from heat or smoke.

The poor little editor with his narrow mind couldn't get away from the idea of smoke and heat; he was worrying about that, and appreciated very little the genius of a man who was to help along humanity's conquest of this earth.

And not alone the ordinary "yahoos" of the crowd derided Fulton and refused him a hearing.

The genius of Napoleon had neither eyes nor ears for Fulton's idea. Now that Elieriot has crossed the Channel above the water in a flying machine, it is interesting to recall the picture of Napoleon baffled on the French side of the Channel, vainly waiting for a wind that would carry his fleet over and let him invade England.

As he waited and raged, a simple American citizen, Robert Fulton, begged for an audience in order that he might demonstrate the possibility of moving ships by steam and invading England or any other country, regardless of the wind.

Napoleon said impatiently: "Tell him I can give him just one minute." That was all he did give him, and he evidently didn't even listen during that minute.

Had Napoleon listened he might have postponed his invasion, built a few steamships, conquered England and changed history.

It is probably just as well that he refused to listen to Fulton, and that the steamship wasn't used at its birth to increase the power of a dictator.

Napoleon did his best work when he made the Kings ridiculous forever, and his next best when he lost his power and ceased to be a menace to the rational, even progress of the race.

Let the man thinking ahead and struggling to do something for an ungrateful public remember Fulton and his experiences, and be encouraged by them.

The National Military Academy is to be commended for the summary dismissal of the hazers of Rolando Sutton.

It will be remembered that a hazing scandal arose during the latter part of Mr. Roosevelt's administration.

In that case Colonel Scott and the West Point authorities vindicated the rules of public opinion, as in this case, by the dismissal of the offenders. After the expulsion of the offending cadets they were unfortunately reinstated, through the intervention of President Roosevelt and Secretary Wright.

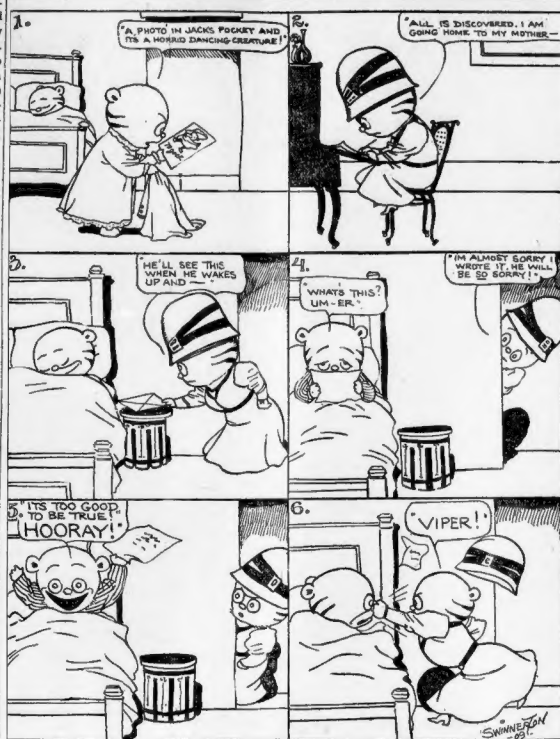

It is reasonable to suppose that the condoning of that offence relaxed the discipline of the academy and prepared the way for the lawlessness with which the present administration has had to deal.

The harm of hazing is put in a clear light by the fact that the victim in this case won great popularity among his comrades by refusing to give straightforward testimony before the investigating court. Thus two opposite and irreconcilable standards of honor were being set up at the military school. And between the two plain honesty fell to the ground.

But the point to be noted and commended is that in this case President Taft approves the dismissal, while President Roosevelt secured a reversal of the judgment and restored the lawbreakers. The Taft way is in accord with public opinion.

Senate Committee of Finance, the tariff bill in its final shape makes luxurious goods pay in the amount of $5.35 per cent. ad valorem, as compared with 51.48 per cent. under the Dingley law, and necessities subject to duty to the extent of 36.78 per cent. as compared with 39.87 under the old tariff."

This telegram is presumably a correct statement, the detailed exactness of its figures being a sufficient guarantee.

"What has been done will be undone inside of a year."

The spectacle is an unhappy one to contemplate. Mr. Roosevelt is probably congratulating himself that he is now with the victors, rather than in the chair where he has put his adversary. It is safe to say that the occasion is one that will redound to Democratic blarney.

Denotes an Unwholesome National State.

is the Democratic party going to be sensible enough to avail of a golden opportunity that Senator Aldrich and the President have put within its reach? That party has of late shown itself no elaborately stupid, and has become so confirmed in its habits of stupidity that one question, whether it is bright enough to see the door that has just been flung open to it, is a question

Of course the President has been placed in an awkward position. It would have been a thrilling demonstration of the moral robustness of the man had he shown himself capable of withholding his assent to the bill.

He will certainly discover that he has retained the friendship of a majority of
